The Top 10 Exhibition Venues in Terms of Size

Hannover Messegelände, Hannover, Germany (496,000 square metres)

The Hannover Fair dates from 1947 when the British military government in post-war occupied Germany wanted to hold a trade fair to rebuild commerce and trade in the country. Fully integrated with the city's public transport infrastructure since 1949, the Hannover Fair is a case-book example of best practice in Exhibition venue design and operation. It underwent extensive re-modelling in preparation for Expo 2000.

National Exhibition and Convention Center, Shanghai, China (400,000 square metres)

Built in the shape of a four-leaf clover, this highly iconic exhibition venue. Dating from 2011, this is a statement venue, announcing that China is taking its place at the table of global commerce and culture.

Frankfurt Main Messegelände, Frankfurt, Germany (367,000 square metres)

3

Most of us are familiar with the Messe in Frankfurt as it has hosted IMEX, one of our industry's flagship shows, for over 10 years. We're also familiar with its humongous size (5 minute shuttle ride from entrance to Exhibition Hall). With the city's great global air connectivity and the convenience of a rail connection to within 500m of the facility, the Frankfurt Messe is destined to be hugely popular for global fairs.

Fiera Milano, Milan, Italy (345,000 square metres)

Opened just over 10 years ago, the complex is the work of Italian born architect, Massimiliano Fuksas, who has undertaken signature projects all over the world including the stunning new terminal at Shenzhen Airport in China. There are 8 pavilions with a total surface space of 345,000 square metres.

China Import and Export Fair Guangzhou, China (340,000 square metres)

The Canton Fair at Guangzhou has been held since 1957 and the venue has steadily grown to almost 340,000 square metres of indoor exhibition space across three distinct areas. The facility hosts the spring and autumn sessions of the world renowned Canton Fair which, annually, attracts well over 150,000 trade visitors from over 200 countries to 55,000 individual booths representing well over a quarter of a billion in contracted business.

Köln Messegelände, Cologne, Germany (284,000 square metres)

Next in size is the international trade fair and exhibition centre located in Cologne (Köln) in Northern Germany. This facility also hosts 2,000 meetings and conferences and about major 75 trade fairs each year including Anuga, the most important global exhibition for all things concerning food. While the current campus is contemporary in design, fairs have been held at the site since 1922.

Dusseldorf Messegelände, Dusseldorf, Germany (262,000 square metres)

Here there are 262,000 square metres of space distributed over 19 exhibition halls with additional access to 43,000 square metres of useable outdoor space. Messe Dusseldorf is particularly good on digital with its own comprehensive app and several social media channels in daily use.

Paris Nord Villepinte, Paris, France (242,000 square metres)

Built between 1980 and 1992, Paris Nord Villepinte, one of 10 conference, exhibition and entertainment venues in the Paris metropolitan area under the management of Viparis, is the 8th biggest in the world. It typically hosts a variety of events including both public exhibitions and trade shows including the famous Salon du Cheval, a 9 day trade event aimed at the bloodstock and equestrian industry.

McCormick Place, Chicago, USA (241,000 square metres)

It hosted the primary US based trade show for meetings and incentives known colloquially as IT&ME. McCormick has expanded greatly over the years and is now a fully integrated campus that includes accommodation, retail and a transport hub. It is the largest such facility in the US spread over 4 areas, linked by pedestrian promenades and sky bridges.

Fira Barcelona – Gran Via, Barcelona, Spain (240,000 square metres)

There are two exhibition venues in Barcelona under the overall management of Fira Barcelona, the Gran Via, at 240,000 square metres, being the bigger of the two. Designed by the Japanese architect Toyo Ito, winner of the Pritzker prize, it contains 240,000 square metres of exhibition floor space, and has 8 interconnected halls and 45 restaurants. It is located close to Barcelona Airport and as the host location for IBTMWorld.
